

ENGLAND.

Prorogation of Parliament by Proxy.

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

England Friendly with All Foreign Powers.

THE TREATY OF WASHINGTON.

The London Conference and the Tranquillity of the East.

THE AGGRIAN OUTRAGES IN IRELAND.

TELEGRAMS TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, August 21, 1871.

Parliament was prorogued to-day. The Commons were summoned to the Chamber of the House of Lords, where they listened to the Queen's speech.

But six peers were in attendance and only a few ladies were present.

The speech was read by the Lord Chancellor, as one of the members of the royal commission.

The following is a verbatim copy of the speech:—

My Lords and Gentlemen.—The time has now arrived when I am enabled to release you from your attendance in Parliament and to commend your unwearied labors for the public good.

THE ROYAL ANNUITIES.

I acknowledge with satisfaction the loyal readiness with which you have made provision for my beloved children, the Princess Louise and Prince Arthur.

ENGLAND AT PEACE WITH EVERY POWER.

The great events and important changes which have recently occurred on the Continent of Europe will not compromise the friendly relations existing between the Crown of the United Kingdom and foreign Powers. Whatever part I may take in those international questions which from time to time may arise will continue to be taken with no other view than the maintenance of general concord and public right.

THE LONDON CONFERENCE.

The Conference which was sitting in London at the commencement of the session was joined during its deliberations by the French plenipotentiary, and it considered and agreed upon the restoration of the stipulations of the Treaty of 1856 which concerned the Black Sea and Bosphorus. I trust the unanimous decision of the Powers which has been recorded in the new treaty may assist in securing the tranquillity and welfare of the East.

THE TREATY OF WASHINGTON.

With especial satisfaction I refer on the present occasion to our relations with the United States. By the Treaty of Washington modes of settlement have been fixed for several questions which have long remained in dispute, my communications with the American Government not being without promise of advantage to other countries. The President has conferred with me in the application of that principle of amicable reference which is proclaimed by the Treaty of Paris, which I rejoice to have the opportunity of recommending by example; and we have also agreed in the adoption of certain rules for guiding the maritime conduct of neutrals which may, I trust, ere long, obtain general recognition and form a valuable addition to the code of international law. I place full reliance upon the disposition of the Americans to carry forward with cordiality and zeal the subsidiary arrangements which have been determined on for the execution of the Treaty. I shall apprise the Parliament of Canada that the provisions which require its consent are, in my view, highly conducive to the interests of the Dominion. On these provisions, however, that Parliament will pass independent and final judgment.

THE COMMERCIAL TREATY WITH FRANCE.

The Government of France has signified a desire to alter some of the provisions of the Commercial Treaty of 1860, which are now terminable upon notice of twelve months by either of the contracting States. I am anxious to meet the wishes of a friendly Power and to give scope for any measures calculated to meet the local exigencies of France, and I should welcome any change of a nature to restrict that commercial intercourse between the two countries which has done so much for their closer union.

THE ABOLITION OF THE PURCHASE SYSTEM.

GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.—I thank you for the liberal supplies which, under the circumstances of the year, I directed my government to ask from you, and for the sum of money you have voted in order to meet the change and compensations required by the abolition of the system of purchase in the army.

THE ARMY REGULATION BILL.

My Lords and Gentlemen.—I observe with concern that you have not been able to bring to a debate issue the treatment of some subjects which I recommended to you in the speech from the throne at the opening of the session; but several important laws have been added to the Statute Book. By the Army Regulations bill you have made liberal provision for those officers of the army who will no longer be permitted on retirement to sell their commissions to their successors, and by transferring to the executive government powers in respect to the auxiliary forces which hitherto have been vested in the Lords Lieutenant of counties you have laid the foundation for measures calculated to effect a closer union among the various land forces of the Kingdom.

TELEGRAM.

The act by which, after full examination of the facts, you conferred extraordinary powers on the Viceroy of Ireland for the repression of agrarian outrages in Westmeath, has thus far answered its purpose. Elsewhere in that portion of the United Kingdom there is a gratifying immunity from crime, and agriculture and trade are prosperous.

THE UNIVERSITY TEST BILL.

By the measures relating to university tests, and to the repeal of the Ecclesiastical Titles act, and to the laws which affect trade unions, you have brought to a conclusion long continued and serious controversies. The Local Government Board act, I trust, will prepare the way for important sanitary and administrative improvements. An act relating to the judicial committee will supply much needed elements of strength to an important tribunal, and afford a prospect of clearing away a serious arrears of appeals now before the Privy Council.

MORE WORK TO BE DONE.

There is every likelihood that for a long time to come the great and varied interests of the United Kingdom and of the empire at large, together with the extending demands of modern society, may prevent any lightning of the honorable but arduous burden of legislation.

REVENUE, TRADE AND HARVEST.

The condition of the revenue, the revived activity in trade and the prospects of the harvest are subjects for congratulation, and I trust that these and all the other bounties of Providence will ever meet with fitting acknowledgments in the hearts of a grateful people.

At the conclusion of the speech, the Lord Chancellor declared the adjournment of the session of Parliament until November 7, and the members soon after separated.

Bad Show for Smugglers—No More Compromises To Be Allowed.

The American Seal Lock Controversy Ended.

WASHINGTON, August 21, 1871.

Enforcing the Smuggling Law.

The attention of the Secretary of the Treasury has been called to the necessity of a more rigid enforcement of the laws against smuggling, and orders have accordingly been issued to collectors of customs and special agents of the Treasury Department to report in detail to the Department every case brought to their notice. The regulations issued on Saturday, requiring officers of the revenue marine to hereafter faithfully comply with the act of 1870, and vigilantly watch for and seize every article of contraband, are intended to enforce the law.

The revenue force in New York harbor is to be increased by the addition of the new revenue steamer Grant. Orders have also been issued to prosecute every case where the evidence justifies it to the fullest extent of the law, and in no instance to listen to a proposition for a compromise.

A Distinguished Oriental Visitor.

The Honorable Bureau was this evening visited by Francis Bonchard, a French merchant, who comes to Washington on personal and business matters. Some two years ago his son-in-law arrived in New York with a large amount of money, and while there became a lunatic and is now confined at Flushing. As he is a British subject his purpose in coming to Washington is to secure the intervention of the Charge d'Affaires of the British Legation in this matter, and he will to-morrow lay before Mr. Francis Pickens a full statement of the case and ask the privilege of taking his son-in-law back to France.

Mr. Bonchard is one of the leading merchants of Bordeaux, and brings letters from several Granville to the Secretary of State. He speaks in the highest terms of the solicitude manifested by Major Constable and Nathaniel Jarvis, the committee appointed to administer on the affairs of his relative.
